CRUSHED BY A LOCOMOTIVE.

The Tragic Death of a Young Lady in New Jersey—Run Over by a Train While Unable to Escape from a Trestle Bridge on Which She Had Fallen.

From the New York Sun.

Mr. R. S. Bussing, has been spending the summer with his family in Englewood, N. J. On Monday afternoon his eldest daughter, Miss Mamie K. Bussing, Miss May Humphrey and Miss Hatch started in company to gather ferns and mosses. They took the 2 o'clock train and alighted at Leonia, two stations east of Englewood, on the Northern Railroad of New Jersey. They spent the next hour or more sauntering through the meadows adjacent to the railroad track in search of variegated leaves and a pretty plant known in the neighborhood as the cat tail. They wanted these for decorating their homes. After they had each obtained a sufficient collection, they returned to the railroad, and walked along it in the direction of Walton, a station about a mile east of Englewood.

The Northern Railroad has only a single track, and the young ladies took the middle of it in their walk, as it has ditches on both sides. They were in high spirits over their success in gathering plants, and intended to reach the depot in Walton in time for the 4 o'clock train, which they supposed stopped there for passengers for Englewood. When within about 200 feet of the depot they saw the train coming behind them, and started on a run down the middle of the track, ahead of the train. The track was the only way they could take, owing to the ditches on each side of it. Near the depot right in the path which Miss Bussing and her companions took is a small trestlework bridge, about ten feet long, which extends over what is called Mill Brook. In the center of this bridge is a narrow plank for foot passengers. Miss Humphrey was the first to cross the bridge, and to jump from off the track, and was quickly followed by Miss Hatch. They turned to look for Miss Bussing, and, to their horror, saw her lying at full length on the bridge, with the train close upon her. They shrieked, and she scrambled to her feet, but fell again, and the next instant the train passed over her body. The train was stopped as speedily as the new air brakes could do it, and Miss Bussing was lifted on board. She was dreadfully mangled about the limbs, and was unconscious. She died two hours after she was removed to her home.

Convicting a Church Treasurer of Chicken Stealing.

NEWARK, Sept. 23.—In the Court of Special Sessions to-day Collin Skinner, a colored man, was tried for stealing chickens from a man in Orange. It came out on the trial that Skinner is treasurer of the colored church in that place, and that there was little money in the treasury. Judge McCarter remarked that the Court had been inclined to acquit the prisoner, but hearing the testimony they were convinced of his guilt. "We are sorry Mr. Skinner," continued the Judge, "on account of the high position you hold in this church, to see you in this predicament, but we must find you guilty. Your fellow members, deeply as they may be pained by your removal from them, will be consoled by the fact that it will not be difficult for them to take care of what is left in the treasury." The prisoner was remanded for sentence.

The Founder of Tattersall's.

Exactly a hundred and thirty years ago an obscure and unknown Yorkshireman, Richard Tattersall by name, emigrated from the borders of Yorkshire and Lancashire to London, in the hope of mending his fortunes. He had previously tried his hand as a wool comber, but failed thereby to get a living. Between 1749 and 1760 the founder of the Tattersall family had so improved his time and opportunities as to be able to open his now celebrated Repository for Horses at Hyde Park corner, on the edge of the marshes on which now stands Eaton and Belgrave squares. There take place all the great English racing sales, and in its paddock is the great betting exchange known as "Tattersall's," which regulates the odds over much of the world.

The Fright Cured Him.

Sir Henry Bulwer, uncle of Lord Lytton, for months fancied himself affected with paralysis of the legs, and refused to put a foot to the ground, but was wheeled in a chair by a servant. One day, the Rhone steamer on which he was traveling caught fire, and the Captain having run the boat ashore, a plank was thrown out, by which the passengers might land. The first person on the new bridge, and stepping nimbly down, was Sir Henry. When safe on shore, he remembered himself, and called out to his servant: "Carry me, Forster." But it was too late. Forster refused to hear more of his master's folly, and Sir Henry walked very well to the day of his death.

In ascending Mount Washington by the bridle path two men lost their way. They reached the summit the next morning, badly used up. The ice on their hats was half an inch thick.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Sally Swan is a heroine at Granite, Nov., because she seized a buck by the hind legs and held him until her father arrived.

Washington Arnold and Pryor Ward, negroes, locked arms and deliberately walked into the Missouri at St. Joseph, and were drowned.

A man dying recently in St. Louis left $1,000 to an individual who, years before, ran away with his wife. He said in the will that he never forgot a favor.

Clay Rhoades committed suicide at Greenfield, Ohio, because Bob McKinnie had threatened to murder him, and he knew Bob was a man of his word.

A well-dressed woman drew a crowd together in a Cincinnati street by striking a man several times across the face with a whip, and then finishing the punishment with her fists. She coolly explained that he was her runaway husband, whom she had laboriously traced for the sole purpose of whipping him.

Trained from his early youth to the craft of the chamois hunter, the Emperor of Austria loves nature too ardently to lend his countenance to the wholesale slaughter of her children. Dressed in his worn shooting costume—a gray frieze coat, short leather breeches, leaving the knees bare, and heavy hob-nailed shoes—he likes to be out alone, or with a single keeper.

The Archduchess Maria Christina, future Queen of Spain, aged 21, possesses exceedingly pleasant manners, and is about the middle height, slender and fair, with dark brown hair and large blue eyes. She is a capital linguist, speaking French, Italian, Spanish, English, and German admirably. The Spaniards are crowding to Arcachon, where she is staying, to obtain a glimpse of their future Queen.

Seeing a servant rushing out of a London house for medical aid, a rascal said: "I am a doctor," and obtained access to the room of a sick child. He feigned to administer to him for hours, read prayers by his bedside, and then, descending into the dining room and taking advantage of the carelessness wrought by the approach of death, took a good meal, and decamped with all the portable property he could lay his hands on.

London has a church and stage guild, with Charles Reade for a leading member, and the following objects: 1. To promote religious and social sympathy between the members of the church and of the stage. 2. To hold meetings for these purposes from time to time, at which papers may be read and questions discussed of common interest to the members of the guild. 3. To meet for religious worship at least once a year.

The slowness of the Paris street car would make a New Yorker mad with impatience. It stops at the barriers to be searched for contraband goods. It takes three men five minutes to change horses, while the driver bosses the job from his elevated perch. Four and five cars will stand in a row, full outside and in, and one hour must elapse before the last one starts. No crowd, press or hurry seems ever to induce the company to put on extra vehicles or shorten the regular intervals of starting.

MECHANISM IN POLITICS.

The power of the Machine in politics is deplored by the best men of both great political parties in this country. Machine is written with a big M, indicative of the importance of the word.

What is the Machine, whose overruling influence is such matter for regret?

A party machine is composed of the active politicians who control votes and patronage. Its components range all the way from ward strikers up to State Governors and Cabinet officers. All political nominations are new made by machine.

Machines are both great and small. Small machines, donkey engines, as it were, are set in motion in primaries. The large machines are brought out in State and National Conventions.

The great body of honest and intelligent voters have no connection with the Machine. They accept the nominations which it turns out. The voters may not like the Machine ticket, but they vote it.

The California State Democratic Machine recently nominated Glenn for Governor. The San Francisco Examiner, a leading Democratic paper, did not want Glenn nominated. But when the nomination was made it fell down under the wheels of Juggernaut, saying: We were mistaken about Glenn. Glenn is good. Vote for Glenn. This is an illustration of the power of the Machine.

Honest and intelligent voters have occasionally talked of breaking up the Machine. But the right time to do it never comes. We must not do it this year, they say, because if we did the rascally Democrats (or Republicans) would win the election, and that would never do. Next year will be the time. Then we will smash the Machine. And so the Machine bids fair to run on forever.

The Nation thus cleverly satirizes the conduct of the good and intelligent voters who desire to upset the Machine, yet will not put their shoulders to the wheel.

"Their position, in short, is that of a Good Man in a firm of grocers which contributes largely every year to the Board of Foreign Missions, but contains a Wicked Partner who sands the sugar and puts bits of lead on the bottom of the scales. The Good Man feels deeply the guilt and shame of the Wicked Partner's proceedings, and is finally resolved to break with him some day, but wishes to choose a year for doing so when the Board of Foreign Missions will not miss the annual subscription; but, as the Board is always short of money, this year never comes, and the Wicked Partner at last smites grimly when he hears the Good Man talking of a dissolution, and increases the proportion of sand in the sugar and adds another bit of lead to the scales."

Several very fine and costly Machines were running last month in the State of New York. These were the Tammany, the Tilden and the Conkling Machines. The two Democratic Machines pulled dead against each other, and tore into two factions the Democratic party in that State. Each faction made bad nominations. Enough of the mischief done by the Democratic mechanism.

The Conkling (Republican) Machine nominated Cornell for Governor and Seale for State Engineer—both men of tainted reputation. The Nation, an independent Republican journal of pure and liberal tone, recommends the Republican voters to make a fight against the Machine which made those nominations. The advice will keep good for years in any climate in the United States. It is simply to scratch the names of the bad men from the ticket. The Nation's reasoning is this:

"Every Republican voter can indicate his continued confidence in the party, and his continued determination to adhere to it, and can thus make the election tell as he desires it to tell on the Presidential contest of next year, by voting the whole ticket except Cornell and Seale, the Canal Engineer. These two men stand for Conkling and the Machine, and electoral jobbery, and the perversion of the public service to personal and partisan purposes, and for nothing else. If they run and their ticket, it will indicate that Mr. Conkling does not control the Republican vote of this State, and that the time is in making bargains at the Convention next year, and nothing more."

In Passaic City, New Jersey, the other day, Abram Brower was drunk. John Girard offered to take him home. Brower took Girard's offer as an insult to his sobriety, and a quarrel followed in which Brower was knocked down. Girard was going home, when Brower threw a large stone at him. The stone missed Girard, but killed John Girard, a bystander.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ex-Governor Palmer of Illinois had been named as one of the Democratic candidates for President. He is editor of the Register, a newspaper published in Springfield, the capital of Illinois. Ex-Governor Palmer is an outspoken man, and in the newspaper which he edits he humorously defines his position, as follows:

"The editor of the Register is not a candidate for the Presidency. He thinks the Democratic party, when seeking a candidate, might go further and fare worse, and he also thinks it will certainly do so."

Ex-President Grant has been spoken of as a candidate for a third term. It would look well in him to follow the example of ex-Governor Palmer.

In the examination of Dudley Haskell, Jr., charged with the murder of George Schwartz in San Francisco, the prosecution has in the last two days produced many respectable witnesses who testified that they were near the place of the shooting and heard only two shots. The defense had introduced testimony to prove that three shots were fired. As Schwartz received two wounds from Haskell's pistol, the number of shots fired is the turning point in the case. One witness testified that he had been asked "to stretch his conscience a little." The examination was continued to-day.

Another six-days walking match begins at San Francisco this evening. Forty entries have been made. On October 8th a six-days walk for women will commence. A Stanley or a Livingston may cross the "Dark Continent," or a Marcy traverse the wilds of South America, in the interests of science and humanity, yet receive less compensation for his labor than one of these.

William Ringold Cooper, who two years ago swindled G. P. Treadwell of San Francisco out of $70,000 by a series of forgeries, was arrested in London yesterday for similar crimes. Cooper is an adept in the art of forgery, and is one of the boldest and most daring operators that ever lived.

The wife of Baron Littlefinger, who was on exhibition in Reno recently with the Millie Christine combination, had a nine and three quarter pound baby at Sacramento last Thursday. Littlefinger is about three feet high, while his wife is a woman of more than average size.

The Capital Savings Bank of San Francisco goes out of the commercial business to-day. After this it will be strictly a savings bank.

The Paris Figaro lately said that the San Francisco Chronicle supported "Mr. Bilks, the Republican candidate."

The Gazette enters upon its eighth volume to-day.

A Deacon Tarred and Feathered.

From the Washington Post.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 17.—Deacon Griffith, a wealthy farmer and church member of Warren county, seduced a young woman and then drove her out of the county to prevent her appearing against him. A committee of indignant citizens went to his house the other night, coated him with tar and feathers, and were about to apply a fire brand, but his piteous appeals saved him. He was obliged to give a promise to leave the county within ninety days.

Murry Dunham's new photograph parlors, cor. Sierra street and Commercial Row, are now open and doing a lively business. Old pictures copied, enlarged and finished in oil, water colors, ink or crayon.

Googel, the well-known watchmaker, has opened up a lot of beautiful goods in the way of jewelry, opera glasses, etc. His watches with illuminating dials, that show the time plainly in the dark, are worth looking at.

In connection with the above programme there will be a full display of all the scenery connected with the theatre. This in itself will be worth the admission, for the scenery is really very fine. The object for which it is given, too, the benefit of the Episcopal Church, should draw a good house. The price of admission will only be fifty cents for any part of the house. Reserved seats, however, can be secured at the Theatre cigar stand without any extra charge. The efforts of these talented young people should be rewarded with a full house.

A Card From Mrs. Ferder.

ED. GAZETTE: Permit me through the columns of your newspaper, to return my heartfelt thanks to numerous friends and neighbors, and especially to the members of Truckee and Reno lodges of Odd Fellows, for the assistance and kind attentions to myself and children in the affliction which has befallen us. My prayer will ever be that "He who doeth all things well" may bless and prosper your people through all time. ANNIE FERDER.

THE DEPOT HOTEL.

The Largest and Best Caravansary on the Line of the C. P. R. R.

An Ornament and Help to Reno—Description of the Building—First-Class Appointments Throughout—Elegant and Costly Furniture—Sunshine in Every Room—Thoroughly Equipped and Well Managed.

A first-class hotel is a great help to a town. One of the first inquiries a man makes when he proposes to visit a place for business, health or pleasure, relates to the character of its hotel accommodation. It is a matter of congratulation for the citizens of Reno that they can truthfully boast of the superior advantages which this place can offer in that respect. The new Depot hotel is conceded to be the finest and best on the line of the railroad between San Francisco and Omaha. It was opened on June 30 of this year, but considerable delay was experienced in getting a full supply of furniture. The house is now complete in all its appointments. A GAZETTE reporter was recently shown over the building from top to bottom, and as a full description of the establishment has never been published, a detailed account of it is furnished as indicative of the progress this town is making, and because a caravansary so highly creditable to the place is worthy of prominent notice.

THE SITE OF THE DEPOT HOTEL.

renders it one of the most conspicuous edifices in the town. Its architecture is such that the eye which has been attracted by its bulk, is held by its beauty. In color a neutral gray relieved by dark bands, and of harmonious proportions, the whole exterior of the building is pleasing. In height the Depot hotel is 65 feet from the ground to the top of the tower. It is constructed almost entirely of redwood, with pine floors. It covers a lot of ground 32x170 feet. It has three stories, surrounded by a Mansard roof, from the centre of which rises a graceful tower. Three flag-staffs, each thirty feet in height, spring from the roof and help to give an appearance of lightness to the whole structure. The express, telegraph and railroad ticket offices are on the northern end of the building; the baggage room of both railroads at the other extremity. Next the telegraph office is a spacious waiting room for passengers, connected by a stairway with the second floor of the hotel. The bar room occupies the center of the building, and is provided with nothing but the best of wines, liquors and cigars. If a Virginia or Bodie man is to be looked up after the arrival of a through train, this is the place to find him. This room is also the hotel office. One of Hall's massive safes here provides protection for the valuables of the guest, and facing the bar he can contemplate the reflection of his countenance in a measuring 10x6 feet, in a handsome oak wood frame. A lavatory and water closets are close at hand. The dining room comes next on the ground floor. It is 50x32 feet, and will seat 135 persons. Adjoining is a spacious and well-furnished kitchen. Detached from the main building, to the east, is the laundry, where the Chinese servants sleep. Frost proof cellars below the hotel furnish ample storage room. The main entrance is on the north side, where a stairway six feet wide leads to the second floor. On this flat and the next are

THE GROUND FLOOR.

FIFTY SLEEPING PARTMENTS.

At the head of the stairway on each floor, is a two-inch plug provided with 100 feet of 2-inch rubber hose for use in case of fire. On each of the upper floors a wide hallway extends from end to end through the middle of the building. Every room opens directly upon a main hall, and all have windows opening on the outside air. The furniture is all from the West Coast Furniture Company of San Francisco. It is composed of woods and is all of the Eastlake pattern. All the furniture on the second floor is topped with marble. Brussels and three-ply carpets cover the floors of the rooms. A wide piazza, opening on the second floor, extends all around the building. The summit of the tower overlooks one of the finest views in the state. Indeed, every window on the upper floors commands an uninterrupted view for miles away. Every apartment in the house gets a share of sunshine every day. The hotel has great

ADVANTAGES OF LOCATION.

It is situated at the junction of the Virginia and Truckee and the Central Pacific railroads, so that all trains stop at its doors. The building with all its appointments cost about $25,000. The whole speaks well for the enterprise, energy and good taste of W. R. Chamberlain, the proprietor. Half the success of a hotel depends upon its management, and the Depot Hotel in H. A. Clawson has one of the most experienced, well known and popular managers on the coast. The two clerks, L. M. Jodoin and W. L. Gillespie, look well after the comfort of travelers, and keep a sharp eye open for dead beats.

BY TELEGRAPH.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

A BATTLE WITH INDIANS.

Three Companies of U. S. Cavalry in Danger of Extirmination.

The Indians Attack Thornburgh's Troops in Colorado—The Commander and Eleven Men Killed—Critical Situation of the Soldiers.

MILK RIVER, Colorado, Sept. 29.—Major Thornburgh's command, consisting of three companies of cavalry, were attacked at noon to-day by several hundred Ute Indians. Thornburgh, ten soldiers, and a wagon master were killed.

Captains Grimes and Payne, Lieut. Paddock, and twenty-five men were wounded. The troops have taken up a position in a canyon. They hope to hold out until reinforced, but their safety depends on the promptness with which assistance may be rendered.

PERSONAL.

L. E. Doan is dangerously ill at Boca.

Pierre Humbert has returned from San Francisco.

George Heppery is reported to be dying in the hospital.

Miss Sadie Eot is down from Franktown and will remain in town during the fall.

Mr. Browning, the night-operator at the station, who has been for several days very ill with pneumonia, was last night sent down to the railroad hospital at Sacramento. His recovery is hoped for.

Fire in the Snow Sheds.

A fire broke out in the snow sheds at Strong's Canyon about eleven o'clock last night. A few of the sheds were burned. Train No. 1, the east bound overland, was delayed about two hours and forty minutes. The lightning train going west was compelled to stop three hours at Truckee. The lightning train which arrived here this morning was also detained, leaving Truckee forty minutes late, but arriving in Reno on time.

A Beautiful Display of Prizes.

The prizes for the Ladies' Tournament in the coming fall, consisting of solid and silver plated ware, are now on exhibition in the window of Googel's jewelry store on Virginia street. They are of beautiful design, and elaborate finish. There is also on exhibition at the same place a solid silver cup, presented by A. A. Longley, to be awarded for the best Norman colt by Barnum.

Cured at the Sierra Valley Hot Springs.

The medicinal virtues of Campbell's Sierra Valley Hot Springs are attracting a good deal of attention. Many persons are said to have been much benefited by them this summer. The Truckee Republican states that a Miss Penman, daughter of Robert Penman, of Mohawk Valley, having been an invalid for over two years from the effects of rheumatism, was cured in six weeks at Campbell's this season.

The Board of Equalization.

The Board of Equalization yesterday passed upon a number of assessments. Supt. Yerington appeared and asked that the assessment on the main V. & T. road be reduced to $9000 per mile, and on side tracks to $4000, the old valuation. The Board took the matter under advisement, to be decided on Friday, on which day the Central Pacific will be heard. The Board is still in session.

Excursion Rates on the V. & T.

During next week a special train will be run over the V. & T. road. The fare for the round trip between Virginia and Reno will be $2 50; between Carson and Reno, $1 50. The V. & T. road, with customary liberality, will carry free, both ways, all exhibits for the fair.

Took to the Woods.

James Orndorff, of Virginia, sent Jansen of the Independence Lake Hotel, a pair of fine hounds. When the dogs arrived they were united to the woods. One returned in a few hours, but the other at last accounts was still missing.

THE TRUCKEE AFFRAY.

The Wounded Man Makes a Statement of the Affair.

George Thomas, who was stabbed by C. W. Whitney, in Truckee on Monday, was still living last evening, and hopes of his recovery are entertained. He has been interviewed by a reporter of the Truckee Republican, and tells in substance the following story: He has been a driving team for J. Smith. On Thursday last a difficulty occurred between a relative of Smith's called "Chris" and a man named C. W. Whitney. Chris struck Whitney and many angry words passed between the men. In some way Thomas was accused of being the cause of the difficulty, and Smith discharged him. On Monday, while standing at Irwin's stable, Thomas alleges that Whitney came in and a fight occurred. Thomas admits striking the first blow, but was unarmed and declares he had no idea that Whitney had a knife. After the occurrence Whitney gave himself up to Justice John Keiser, and is now in jail. He admits the stabbing, but says Thomas had threatened to kill him, and that he only acted in self-defense.

Mollie Thompson and Deaf Bob were the only two people in Truckee who had enough charity and kindness of heart to volunteer to watch with the wounded man, on Monday night.
